1. Applicant's election with traverse of claims 1-8 in the reply filed on 3/7/2005 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that there should be no undue burden. This is not found persuasive because extra inventions in the same application are a burden since Examiner's are allotted time for only one independent and distinct invention.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities: The term "preprag" does not appear to be a term of art, so that what is meant is not clear. Appropriate correction is required.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term PTFR lacks antecedent basis so it is not clear what is being claimed.

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-2 and 4-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Johnson. Johnson discloses the claimed invention at Fig. 5, with core layer 22, conductive pads 24, 26, and via holes with thick film polymer resistors 14. For claim 2, it is not clear what a preprag is but is assumed here to be something prefabricated, prior to forming the resistors. In claim 5, the pads are metal. For claim 6, the diameter and length are varied at col. 3, lines 55-68 so that the amount of fill varies. For claims 7-8, the via holes are filled, thus any function or property since reduced inductance is met inherently due to the filling as claimed. In claim 4, no solder ball is affirmatively claimed since a conductive pad meets the claim as the alternative.

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 2-3 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson in view of Burgess. Johnson discloses the claimed invention except the prepreg and copper layers. Burgess discloses copper layers with prepreg at par. 84 used for multilayer interconnect systems having vias such as that of Johnson so that such a system would have been obvious.
